

ITS TOPOGRAPHICAL ADVANTAGES AND DISADVANTAGES, AND THE VIADUCT IT WILL REQUIRE

The location of Schenley Park, with regard to the nearest points of approach thereto, can be seen from the above map. From the Forbes avenue and Fifth avenue sides, the nearest point is reached at Boquet street, 20 minutes drive from City Hall. From the intersection of Boquet street and Fifth avenue the distance, in a straight line to the boundary line, is about 770 yards. It is at this point that, very probably, the main approach from the city will be located. At a little distance below Forbes avenue, in the direction of Boquet street, the ground abruptly descends into the ravine below, and along which the Junction Railroad finds its way. From the bottom of the ravine a high bluff, extending far to the south, rises ruggedly. Once on the top, however, of this high ground the features of the tract become less broken, the land extending into broad plateaus, or sloping away into gullies and ravines, more or less well covered with undergrowth and timber.

The only available way of reaching this tableland from Boquet street and Forbes avenue is by means of a viaduet similar in effect to that which carries Forbes avenue across the ravine further along the road. This would necessitate a considerable outlay; but the advantages of the grand approach thereby obtained would, it is believed, more than repay the outlay. It will be seen that the park touches on a point very close to the river on the Four Mile Run side, being distant from second avenue about 530 yards. The distance from this point in a straight line to South Thirty-fourth street is very nearly two-thirds of a mile, or 1,150 yards.

MANAGING THE PARK.

A Commission Suggested for This Purpose-A Zoological Garden May be Con-

The park having materialized through the communication of Mrs. Schenley in much more tangible shape than ever a departed presence did through Dr. Slade's handwritbe managed. Already applications are in tem of administering justice judicially in course of preparation for appointments as minor cases is not at fault, and if so, what landscape gardeners, laborers, foremen, superintendent and other positions of honor | have been offered in times past, and the and emolument in connection with the park | systems in vogue in other States have been as soon as the necessary funds are forthcoming, and the chance of turning an honest comes up.

The manners suggested for running the park are various, the first being the one originally suggested in THE DISPATCH of leaving the whole matter in the control of the Department of Public Works until it becomes too cumbersome for proper manipu-lation. This will certainly be the plan adopted until the appropriations are ready, and the other necessary legislation passed.

The suggestion is offered by several wellknown men that four park commissioner be elected by the people to hold office one, two, three and four years, the Chief of the Department of Public Works to be a member of the commission ex-officio, and all appointments with the general administration of park affairs to be passed on by this body. Other minor officials should be body. Other minor officials should be added, such as Park Superintendent, etc., and the place kept in such shape that it could be enjoyed without being abused by the people. The statement by Superintene ent Hamilton, quoted at the meeting of the Parks Committee the other day, that Allegheny had no parks, they were simply flower gardens, is widely quoted to prevent the current park literature of the day being confined to "Keep off the grass."

Another proposition is to organize a zoo-leclare themselves ready to subscribe liberally to the project as soon as the site and the action are determined on, so as to make the Pittsburg park the rival of those of Philadelphia, Cincinnati, New York and other cities which blend instruction with recreation by giving points from the animal life of other climes.

Secure Bail, and crowded out of a chance for trial, and finally be acquitted. The defendant has no satisfaction, and neither has the county. The latter would be $80,000

The boom in property in the Squirrel Hill district still continues and prices have advanced so rapidly that the speculators seem to have lost their heads. The Squirrel Hill Electric road, the opening of Barton street, and Mrs. Schenley's magnificent gift of land for a park have so advanced values that holders do not know what to ask. It is the opinion of some real estate dealers that the boom will not last, as the property is practically unimproved, and is not worth. think that the prices will not be lower, but, in fact, will be far higher before the park improvements are finished. One gentleman said that the property along Forbes, Fifth avenue and Barton street would increase his law books, and such a training would prove invaluable to any one who had aspithree-fold in value after awhile, but the property along Greenfield avenue, in the oliow and on the hill would be at least 50 per cent below present prices in a few months. Despite this adversity of opinion, deals are being made every day.

Joseph Laughrey, the Wood street sad-dler, purchased 45 acres of land in the Forbes street district several years ago for $72,000, and several months before the park was talked of he refused $225,000 for it, and is still holding. Mr. Laughrey owns one side of Fralich street from Joneair street to the park, and the greater portion of the other side is owned by J. K. Murray, Frederick G. Kay, the attorney, purchased some property out that way about a year ago for a comparatively low figure, and now from $6,000 to $10,000 an acre for it. The Haymaker Bros. purchased an option on a 36-acre preperty a few days ago and have since been offered $18,000 for a release. W. H. Samson has invested $50,000 in property pear the park plot,

THE 'SQUIRE SYSTEM.

A General Feeling Exists That it Should be Changed - The Number Reduced and Fixed Salaries Paid-Opinions of the People.

Three local Aldermen struggling on the edge to keep out of the soup has set a number of people to thinking, and the query is ing, the question was raised how it would propounded whether or not the present sysremedy could be suggested. Various plans repeatedly referred to, but nothing has ever been done. To make any changes in this ar and an acquaintanceship to profit | State would require a modification of the Constitution. A few interested persons were seen by a DISPATCH reporter, and what they have to say on this important subject follows: Chief Brown, of the Department of Pub-lic Safety, was asked what he thought of the aldermanic system of administering justice, in view of the developments produced by the recent trials and convictious. He thought that the charge of Judge White which he had no doubt had been carefully prepared, might be considered as a notice erved to the Aldermen generally that any use of the office for unwarranted profits would be out of the question in the future. He felt the deepest sympathy for the family of one of the three convicted, which included a young wife and four small chil-dren, but was afraid that the course indi-cated by Judge White's charge would be a stern one when it came to sentence day.

CHIEF BROWN'S IDEAS. Mr. Brown was asked whether the office of Alderman was not in these later days an entirely superfluous one, and said he would not go that far, but thought we could get along with fewer and at a great saving of expense to the county. His idea of a cen-tral police court, he thought, would Another proposition is to organize a zoo-logical garden society in Pittsburg which will place such an attraction on the ground to be purchased by the city, and so conduct the enterprise that it will be self-supporting the enterprise that it will be self-supporting the enterprise that it will be self-supporting of all cases beneath a felony, and keep of all cases beneath a felony, and keep of all cases beneath a felony, and keep thought this would secure a better show for the accused as well as the county, for sometimes the former, committed by some Alder-man, may stay months in jail, unable to > per annum ahead by such an arrangement when the cost of witnesses, delays, counsel, etc., are taken into consideration.

> Mr. Brown continued: "For the judge of such a police court I think the best available material would be a rising young lawyer of good attainments and ability with a chance to make a name which this position would give him. He ought to have a five years' term, with a salary of from $2 500 to $3,000, and with the thorough experience he would get in that time and the opportunities for study afforded he would be well qualified for a higher position on the bench by the end of his term. He could study the criminal classes as well as insure honesty, leaving the only remedy in the hands of the voters to choose men h and conscientious. Such men will do their duty if they accept, but the question is whether men enough can be found in all communities willing to immolate them-selves, for the office of Justice of the Peace is to a great extent a thankless one, where the incumbent is disposed to do right in all cases. It is said that Alderman Sorg was in effect driven out of his office, because he would not allow attaches to subpona witnesses rather for the purpose of making fees than for what they knew of the case in dispute, and Alderman Salisbury got but little business, because it was known that if a case were not made out he would decide for

Clarence Burleigh, Esq., was asked what he proposed as a remedy, and he replied that his views hadn't changed since May 7, 1887, when he addressed the Bar Association, subject, "Our Criminal Courts." He SHOULD REDUCE THE NUMBER. "First and foremost, the number of Aldermen and Justices of the Peace should be reduced greatly. We have now, say 200 of these gentlemen, who with their corps of constables, of course outnumbering the magistrates, form a small army, and must, and do make a living-some of them have large incomes. If six Judges sitting (for jury trials) about five hours a day for five days in the week, and say nine months in a year, can dispose of all the civil and crimi-nal business of the county (and nal business of the county (and nearly every civil and criminal proceed-ing heard or tried before a justice finds its way into court), it strikes me that four times that many justices, or say 25, ought to dispose of such minor cases, and the crimi-nal proceedings that are instituted before them. Therefore, suppose that the Consti-tution and laws of our Commonwealth were pernicious system of fees now in vogue; that they were placed under a bond, heavy and good, and had, as now, jurisdiction over the entire county, would it not be an improvement for both the Alderman and the county? Men not necessarily learned in the law, but whose election should be subject to the approval of a majority of our Judges, thus preventing the possibility of men dis-qualified by character, habits or ignorance, filling such a responsible office. They should be compelled to keep a full record (not such a meager minute as now) of their proceedings, containing not only the names, but the relevant testimony of all witnesses for defendants as well as their opponents, more especially in all cases where an appeal is not a matter of right.

CASES THEY SHOULD HEAR. "In addition to their present|civil jurisdic tion, all of what may be called the minor criminal offenses—the classification of the same to be made by the Legislature-such as assaults, batteries, surety and desertion cases, and some others, should be heard and decided by such magistrates, and their decisions final, unless an appeal be taken to the proper court within a fixed time, and such appeal not to be allowed according to the present practice in cases of summary convictions, by simple petition and bail but by the court, upon petition showing the whole case alleged against petitioner, a cer-tified copy of the magistrate's entire record, the defense relied on, and the affidavita of different witnesses for defense, contain ing their name, age, residence and occupa-tion, and the facts they will testify to in court, and if then in the opinion of the Court-applying the rules relative to new trials-an appeal, and a jury trial should be allowed, the same should be granted upon such terms as would be meet and just. Or suppose our Constitution and laws were changed so that our courts should, in some regular order, once in everythree months appoint from the justices of the peace of this county three of their number, who would sit during regular and stated times in our Court House, and hear and decide all of such cases. That they were obliged to keep a full record of their proceedings as before set forth, their decisions to be final, unless an appeal be taken according to the terms hereinbefore mentioned, and that no case instituted before any of them should be by them heard or determined. "All of the many cases which by law can be, and now are settled, and "non prossed" in the Quarter Sessions before the jury is sworn, could and would be disposed of in the same manner here, thus saving the county the expense incident to the finding a bill of

"Either of these plans would relieve the Court of Quarter Sessions from many of those cases which lower its dignity, steal its time, overburden it with work, and absolutely prevent proper deliberation and care to the more important cases, and what more than anything else robs the coffers of the county. It would also be the means of placing in office more responsible men, and by giving them a proper salary, and no fees outside, reduce the temptation to counte-nance suits devoid of merit, and simply creatures of cupidity, malice or spite."

S. A. McClung, Esq., seemed to be a good deal of a pessimist.
